

2023: A year goes by.

I find myself impatient most of all, wondering why a long-suffering moment seems so long and yet the year has passed in just a snap, thinking maybe I am not taking advantage of every moment as it comes.

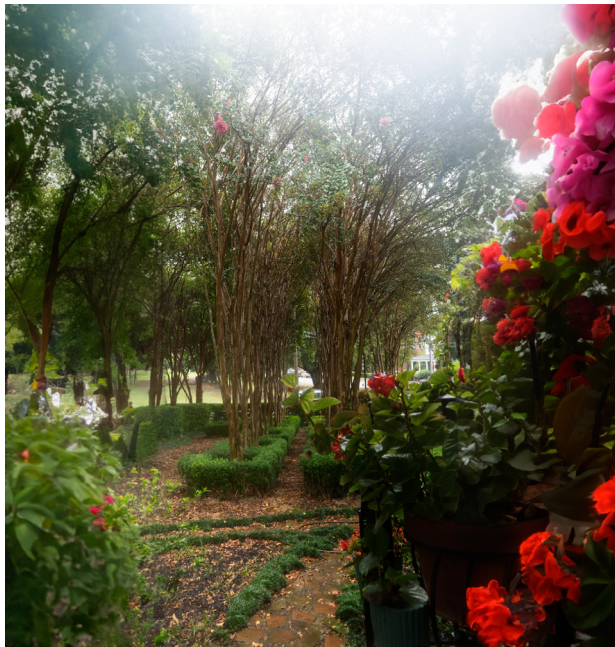

Enjoy some of my pictures of last year. I take them to remember, and I like to take pictures also.

Love you all.

Sincerely
Danielle

I had a dream last night about how to live. Or maybe it was the dream's way I should live.

2023 has been a hard year with many ups and downs. I am very grateful to all my friends and family for standing by to make it not so hard. This year's photography is dedicated to them. Thank you all.
